MARDI GRAS FEATURE OF THE FESTIVAL

Parade Will Be Outstanding Event of This Evening

Dixon's annual Fall Festival and Corn Show officially opened this afternoon at 1:30 and despite a chilly wind, a large gathering of business and professional men paraded through the downtown section.

The Corn Show in the Marks building on Galena avenue was open early this morning and several clerks were kept busy throughout the day listing entries of farm products. The indication at noon pointed to one of the largest displays of this class that has ever been held in Dixon.

Free vaudeville acts at varied locations on First street featured this afternoon's program and this evening at 7 o'clock the annual Mardi Gras parade will form at the Elks club house to pass through the business district. Judges will view the procession of merry makers and award prizes in the several departments. The Dixon Municipal band and the junior Legion drum and bugle corps will furnish music for this evening's program and parade.

Wednesday's Program The Wednesday program will open at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon with a band concert on Peoria avenue and First street. The entire program of free attractions will be presented on the platform on Galena avenue and First street at 1:45 to be followed by a band concert on Hennepin avenue and First street at 2 o'clock. A free attraction will be presented at 2:15 at Peoria avenue and First street followed by a brief band concert at Ottawa avenue and First street at 2:30. Vaudeville acts and a group of Indians will furnish the attraction on the stage on Galena avenue and First street at 2:45 to be followed by a band concert on Galena avenue and Second street at 3 o'clock. Free attractions will again be presented at 3:15 at Hennepin and First street to be followed by the pet parade. The pie eating contest and girl's nail driving contest will be staged at 5 o'clock at Galena and First street.

Tomorrow evening all of the free acts will be presented on the huge stage on Galena avenue and First street at 7:30 and free dancing will furnish entertainment for all participating in the carnival spirit both this evening and Wednesday at 9 o'clock at Hennepin avenue and River street.

INJURIES ARE FATAL Danville, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Kenneth Baker, 12, died in a hospital last night of injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by a car driven by Thomas Graham, Danville.

Hope Is Waning Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Hope for the recovery of Patricia Maguire waned today as physicians ordered a second blood transfusion for the dark-haired girl whose futile 67-month fight against sleeping sickness has been aggravated by pneumonia.

Dr. Eugene Traut, her attending physician, said he hoped today's transfusion would build up the 32-year-old girl's strength in order that an operation for an abdominal tumor could be performed as soon as possible.

May Ruin Salmon It took four years of wrangling among the Army Engineers, the Bureau of Fisheries and the Oregon Fish Commission to devise Bonneville's elaborate fish-protection system, and now that it is finished, no one actually knows whether it will work at all.

The Oregon Fish Commission proposed a series of gravity ladders, which are small waterfalls, two or three feet high, with pools in between. The salmon jump upward from pool to pool until they reach the crest of the dam.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries favored these ladders, but in addition proposed a series of fish elevators. These are similar to ship locks. The salmon are led by traps into a lock, where a metal sieve at the bottom of the lock is lifted, and the fish are hoisted into a higher lock. From this they are hoisted again, and so on.

It sounds complicated merely to read about it—so be grateful you're not a fish.

In the end, the Army Engineers curtailed these plans as too expensive.

LEAGUE VOTES CONDEMNATION OF JAPANESE

No Formal Vote Taken By Nations Assembled at Geneva

BULLETIN

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull reiterated the American government's view today that Japanese bombing of non-combatant populations in China is "unwarranted and contrary to principles of law and humanity."

The secretary of state's statement was made at his press conference in commenting on the action of the League of Nations in condemning Japan for its persistent aerial attacks on large civilian centers in China.

Thus, indirectly, Hull placed this government's formal stamp of approval on the league's action.

Geneva, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The League of Nations assembly condemned Japanese aerial bombardment of China cities today by a moment of dramatic, solemn silence.

The assembly acted swiftly on the resolution. It had been adopted yesterday by the league advisory group on which the United States is represented in a consultative capacity.

Opportunity to Sign A letter accompanying the text of the measure, from Foreign Minister William Munters of Latvia, president of the 23-nation Sino-Japanese committee, explained its purpose was to give delegates not represented on the committee an opportunity to subscribe to it.

Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, republican Spain's league delegate, then took the floor to support the resolution. At the conclusion of his address, the Aga Khan, chairman of the assembly, announced the body

Japan Mobilizes Her Troops in North China

BULLETIN

Wuhu, China, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Japanese warplanes today bombed the Wuhu airport, five miles outside this Yangtze river city which is 30 miles southwest of Nanking. The city itself was not harmed.

Hongkong, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Chinese sources declared tonight that 200 were killed in Japanese aerial bombardment of Chungking, north of Canton, and that a number of buildings were demolished.

Shanghai, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Japan was estimated by foreign military observers in North China today to be mobilizing 600,000 troops for a possible clash with Russia as her armies claimed advances on all China fronts.

Dispatches from Tokyo said the war office had issued military ordinance "No. 41," affecting virtually every able-bodied man in Japan and prolonging military service indefinitely for all officers and men on both active and reserve lists.

Russia has lodged a stringent warning with Japan against the bombardment of the Chinese capital, Nanking, in what was believed to be a direct response to a Chinese appeal for aid.

In the first claims of progress in several days in the conflict with China, the Japanese army announced an armored train had pushed 50 miles south of captured Paoingfu in North China, putting the most advanced Japanese point 130 miles south of Peiping on the railroad to Hankow.

On the Shanghai front the Japanese claimed advances of 300 to 500 yards all along the entire Lotion and Liehiong sector, 20 miles northwest of Shanghai, after days of severe fighting.

Japanese bombers concentrated their efforts today on destruction of China's air strength, bombing air dromes in the vicinity of Nanking, raiding Canton three times and blasting two Chinese areas in Shanghai.

China's Planes Destroyed More than half of China's planes have now been destroyed, the spokesmen asserted.

Four huge Japanese bombers dropped explosives on the Chapel and Pootung areas here for two hours, some of the missiles shaking the city.

American marines forced two Japanese, equipped with field glasses, from a high water tower inside the International Settlement today after Chinese charges that the tower was being used to signal artillery fighting at Chinese defenders of Chapel.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR LEAVES

Nanking, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Dimitri V. Bogomoloff, the Soviet ambassador to China, left suddenly for Moscow today on what was believed to be a vital mission affecting Russia.

Mrs. Lucile R. Ralston To Succeed Late Husband As Reynolds Co. President

Her Election is Announced Today by Company

In a letter to the trade sent out by the directors of the Reynolds Wire Co. today announcing the death of John G. Ralston at his Reynoldswood home last Wednesday, the company also announced that his widow, Mrs. Lucile Ralston, has been elected to succeed him in the presidency of the company. All other officers have been retained in their former capacities. The letter, the text of which follows, states:

Text of Announcement

"It was with deepest regret and profound sorrow that we announce the death of our late president, Mr. John G. Ralston, on September 22nd, 1937.

"Under his wise leadership the Reynolds Wire Co. has attained the recognized position it occupies today.

"We are fortunate that the business can carry on without a break in continuity, either of its policies or its efficiency.

"For years, as many of you know, Mrs. John G. Ralston has been closely associated with the company. Thoroughly trained in its operation by her father, Mr. Horace G. Reynolds, its founder and first president, and experienced in its management as her husband constantly advised with her during the seven years of his presidency, Mrs. Ralston is unusually qualified to continue the established policies of the company.

"It is, therefore, with pleasure that we advise you that Mrs. Ralston was unanimously elected by the board of directors to the presidency of the company on September 27th, 1937.

"The other officers and executives remain in their present capacities, and assure you of continued service and cooperation in the future, as in the past.

Bar Association May Investigate Ability of Black

Kansas City, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The American Bar Association's powerful resolutions committee began consideration today of a proposal to investigate the fitness of Hugo L. Black for membership on the Supreme Court.

Offered by Robert Lee Tullis, retired as dean of Louisiana State University's law school after a rift with the late Huey P. Long, the terse resolution suggested:

"That it is the sense of this association that membership in a secret, oath-bound order actuated by religious and racial animosity is incompatible with membership in the Supreme Court of the United States and that the relevant facts in regard to the latest appointee to that high post should be ascertained by an impartial committee of five, created by this association."

Plan New Air Corps Technical School

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. A. O. Seaman disclosed today the war department is rushing plans for a new air corps technical school at Denver which will be opened "right after the Christmas holidays."

General Seaman said preliminary work at the site of the multi-million dollar school probably would be started next Monday under a special $875,000 works progress allotment granted recently.

FIRE IN BARREL

Spontaneous combustion in a barrel of rubbish in the basement at the Sullivan pharmacy last evening about 6:45 resulted in an alarm summoning the fire department. The barrel had formerly contained sulphur and the fumes and smoke filled the store. The damage was confined to the barrel which was removed after the fire was extinguished and there was no damage to the stock or property.

CYCLE-FAR ACCIDENT

Edward Kane, aged 12, son of Allen Kane, was cut and bruised yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock when he was struck and thrown from his bicycle. The boy was riding on First street west of Highland avenue when a car driven by Leroy Wedekind, high school student, is said to have struck him and it is alleged, continued without stopping. The injured lad was taken to the offices of a physician where his injuries were dressed and then removed to his home. A warrant charging Wedekind with leaving the scene of an accident was issued by Justice J. O. Shaulis this morning.

Urges GOP Oust John Hamilton

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A purge of "reactionaries" from the Republican party must precede a march of the organization back to power, Rep. Hamilton Fish (R-NY) believes.

"If we had 20 or 30 good funerals, we would come back overnight," he told a Republican club here last night. "We should divorce ourselves from any reactionary influence, including the American Liberty League."

He urged that the party "get rid of" John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, "because he does not fall in line" with needs of the organization.

Rain Helps Giants in Fight for Flag

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Rain washed the New York Giants one full game closer to the National League pennant today as the league leaders double-header with the Boston Bees was cancelled.

Bill Terry's men now need to win only two of their seven remaining games to clinch the flag no matter what the Chicago Cubs accomplish in their six remaining contests. One Giant victory coupled with one Cub defeat will accomplish the same thing; so will two Cub defeats and no Giant victories.

G-MEN JOIN IN EFFORT TO FIND KIDNAPED ROSS

Hunt Mysterious Man in Gray Cape as Key Figure

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Efforts to trace a key figure in the kidnapping of wealthy Charles S. Ross were accelerated today as Federal agents entered the investigation of the puzzling case.

Sixty-two hours after the retired manufacturer was snatched from his expensive sedan these developments took shape:

A justice department official disclosed government agents had joined in the investigation. This action prompted speculation over the possibility ransom notes had been received.

C. S. Vandiver, a behemoth at the Fargo hotel in Syracuse, Ill., was taken to the "Rogue's Gallery" in the Chicago Detective Bureau to inspect photographs of criminals in the hope he could pick out the figure of the mysterious "man in the gray cap" who conversed with Ross in the hotel lobby approximately an hour before he was abducted Saturday night. Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police theorized the "man in the gray cap" might have been the "finger man."

To Chicago from Syracuse Ross, driving to Chicago from Syracuse, was carried off by three men who forced his expensive sedan from the highway at that point. One of the trio robbed Miss Florence Freihage, former business associate of Ross, of $85 after he had bundled the captive into the "ductors' car."

Anxiety over Ross' welfare increased since he is 72 and suffering from high blood pressure and a heart ailment.

Miss Freihage added no new details in the re-telling of her story. She said Ross had noticed a car following them on the 50 mile trip to Chicago and had stopped to let it pass. The pursuing car emerged, covered them with a pistol and said:

"This is a snatch. My boss told me to bring you along."

Lucky Decision

Seattle, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Elroy Carlson of York, N. D., said today his refusal to ride farther with Harry Kinzley, 30-year-old garage man of Mohall, N. D., saved him from meeting a fate similar to Kinzley's death in a burning automobile.

Kinzley was burned to death yesterday when his automobile crashed head on into a bus at Fall City, near here and burst into flames.

Carlson told State Patrolman L. H. Baker he left the automobile a short time before the accident because Kinzley refused to drive slower.

Confessed Slayer Attempts Suicide

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—(AP)—John R. Walker, 36-year-old caddy held for the slaying of his common-law wife, was recovering in a padded cell today after chewing his wrists in an attempt at suicide.

Detective D. R. Patton said Walker confessed last night to killing Virginia Lee Darrow, 34. When police arrived at his cell later to take a formal statement they found him unconscious and bleeding.

An argument over his shirts precipitated a violent quarrel. Walker was quoted by Patton as saying,

NEW TYPE OF PUMPS FOUND TO BE NEEDED

Level of Subterranean Streams Drop Perceptibly

A marked drop in the subterranean source of Dixon's water supply has necessitated the installation of two new deep well pumps by the Dixon Water company during the summer months, and it may be necessary to replace other pumps now in use in the near future, it became known today. Dixon is not the only city in northwest Illinois facing this situation, practically every city in this section having experienced the same condition. During the past three years the level from which the Dixon water supply is derived has dropped about six feet and during the past summer at least a two foot drop has been noted. This reduction in the supply has necessitated the installation of new type automatic electric pumps to provide the necessary amount of water and but one ventrifugal pump remains in operation in Dixon.

The draining of lakes and reduction of levels supplying the source of the underground streams are blamed for the condition, in addition to increased demands for service. Privately owned and municipal water plants throughout this section are gravely concerned over the situation and many are contemplating the deepening of wells to prevent a possible shortage of water supply.

Not Especially Common At the offices of the Dixon Water Company it was announced today that the situation was not particularly alarming at this time, but that a continuation of the drop in the water level might necessitate the installation of the new and more powerful pumps in all of the wells. There was also a possibility of the necessity of opening new wells at a much greater depth or the deepening of the present well, in the event that the present level continues to recede as it has during the past summer.

Increasing demands for service and the extension of mains have added to the local situation. The Dixon Water Company is supplying approximately 3,000 patrons with an average daily pumpage of more than a million gallons of water. During the summer months the output reached a point of a million and a quarter gallons in 24 hours, Secretary Glen Coe stated today.

Last summer the company extended its service mains along the Lincoln Highway west of the city limits to supply residents of Swissville with water and during the past summer four blocks of additional mains have been added to the city system. At present officials of the company are considering a proposal to extend mains to the Dixon State hospital to provide for emergency service. The possibility of supplying the institution with all of the water used was said to have been another proposal presented to the local company for consideration and state engineers have visited the plant during the last week, investigating the equipment and well capacity, with this plan in view, it was stated today. These engineers in their inspection have pronounced the Dixon plant as being one of the finest in the state and being comparable to but one other, that being the plant at Pekin.

Extensive improvements have been made by the Dixon Water Company during the summer months. At the pumping plant at Artesian Place and East River street, the old slate roof which has covered the building since 1883 has

ANYBODY CAN LEARN TO SHOOT SKEET WITH A LITTLE PRACTICE

By Jimmy Robinson

Skeet, which is the fastest growing shooting sport, is easy to learn. It doesn't take years of practice like baseball, hockey, lacrosse or billiards. Anyone who can handle a shotgun and has fairly good eyesight can shoot skeet targets, after a few rounds at the traps.

Last winter out in California I bumped into one shooter at the Angeles Mesa club who was breaking around 95 per cent and the boys told me that he has been shooting but five months. At the National Skeet Shoot at St. Louis last year, young Dick Shaughnessy of Boston, 14 years old, shattered 248 out of a possible 250 to win the individual championship. Dick had been shooting about two years previous to winning the championship. Young Billy Clayton of Oklahoma City, Okla., 114 pounds with his bathrobe and slippers, 17 winters and summers, I consider the greatest all-around shot in skeet. Last year at St. Louis he won the all-around championship and his average on registered skeet targets reads over 99 per cent this year, to date. Then, we'll take some of the grandfathers of skeet. Remember the late H. B. Joy, of Detroit, former president of Packard, who broke the world's record a few years ago with a 20 gauge? He had a long run of well over 100 straight. Mr. Joy was well over the 75 year mark, but he broke skeet targets with ease. I could mention a dozen and one cases, similar to that of Joy's.

Today, skeet is being shot in every state in the Union and in Canadian provinces, including many foreign countries. It is estimated that 40 per cent of all clay targets used in 1936 were shot at skeet. Last year there were 75,000,000 clay targets used at trap-shooting and skeet in this country.

The popularity of skeet shooting is greatly due to its similarity to field shooting. In skeet shooting, when in position to shoot, the shooter stands in field position—that is, with the gun at his side. In going around the skeet field, the shooter will encounter shots going straight away from him, coming toward him and every possible angle up to a complete right angle. Skeet shooting will teach the shooter to handle his gun carefully, quickly and accurately and will vastly improve his field shooting ability.

The average hunter goes shooting three to four times a year. He spends money and shells, shotgun and other equipment. He will waste a great many shots because of his inability to hit the birds. Perhaps he only has a few chances and "blows" these. If this hunter were to practice a few rounds of skeet before the hunting season, it would improve his shooting to a great extent, especially the new shooter and it won't hurt the crack shot to have a few rounds.

Nearly every fish and game club, summer resort, and other place of amusement is interested in field shooting. A trap, either skeet or trapshooting, is inexpensive and it affords a great amount of sports and exercise. If you are interested in forming a gun club, write Jimmy Robinson, care of this paper, or the North American Sportsman's club, Wrigley Bldg., Chicago.

PLINKING RIFLES

By Monroe H. Goode

More rifles are sold for plinking (tin can shooting, etc.) than for any other purpose, and the purchaser of such arms receives good value for his money. The principal requirements of plinking rifles are fair accuracy, ample safety, stock of modern proportions, suitable sights, reasonable weight, and good appearance, feel, and balance. Bolt-action arms offer faster ignition, superior accuracy, and better safety features than do the pump, lever, or falling block type of American actions. Bore sighting is feasible with bolt rifles, such arms can be cleaned readily from the breech, and finally, bolt-action plinking rifles cost less than other types.

All of the rifles discussed in this article are of the bolt-action variety and are chambered for .22-caliber, long rifle, rim fire cartridges, standard or high speed (.22 shorts or longs can also be used), and all are fitted with aperture (peep) receiver type of rear sights. As a rule, most shooters choose plinking rifles with tubular magazines as such arms hold more hulls, which calls for less frequent re-loading.

Few persons are willing to pay more than about $15.00 for a rifle for ordinary plinking purposes.

Four desirable arms for this pastime are described below:

Winchester Model 69 is a bolt-action, box magazine rifle, with 25-inch barrel and excellent pistol grip stock. Bolt handle is of new shape and does not turn into the line of sight when scope is mounted very low, a most desirable feature. Upright and weight considered, the barrel is super-accurate. Sights consist of an aperture receiver sight readily adjusted for windage and elevation, and a front sight fitted with ramp and hood. Despite the fact that this rifle has a box magazine, it is one of the finest low-priced rifles yet developed, and objection to the box magazine is more than offset by the fact that a scope can be mounted low.

Model 69 is exceptionally well made, accurate, durable, and dependable, one of the best choices for boys and girls. When fitted with the Weaver 20-S scope with low type "S" mount, the rifle makes an excellent plinking arm. Weight 5 pounds.

Remington Model 341-P "Sport-master" bolt-action, repeating rifle with tubular magazine and peep sights is a very desirable plinking rifle. It is fitted with a 24-inch barrel of good accuracy and a well proportioned stock. Action, feel, balance, and appearance are very pleasing. Objections are that the bolt handle is too small, cover on front sight cannot be removed, and scope must be mounted high. Weight 6 pounds.

Savage Model 5-S bolt-action rifle is fitted with a very accurate 24-inch barrel, an aperture receiver rear sight, folding open rear and a hooded front sight, it has a nicely checkered stock of good proportions and is drilled and tapped for Savage (Weaver) telescope sights. Scope must have high mounts. Weight 5 1/2 pounds.

Stevens Model 666 "Buckhorn" is a bolt-action rifle with 24-inch barrel, large, well-shaped bolt handle, tubular magazine, full size pistol stock and full forearm, aperture receiver sight, folding open rear and hooded front sight with three inserts. High scope mounts must be used. Weight 6 pounds.

Mossberg Model 46A is a bolt-action, 8-shot repeater with 26-inch barrel, speed lock, tubular magazine, stock of generous proportions with pistol grip and cheek rest, full size beaver tail forearm and large butt plate, large shapely bolt handle, which permits the use of scope sights when mounted in the lowest practical position. It is the first popular-priced receiver designed expressly for combination telescopic and metallic sights. New type micrometer peep sight swings to side to allow drop to line of metallic sights for scope sight, for which rifle is drilled and tapped. Front sight hooded. Weight 7 1/2 pounds.

12 INJURED IN CHICAGO DECK BUS ACCIDENT

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Twelve persons were injured, three women seriously, and 40 others were shaken up last night when a double-decked bus crashed into an outer drive bridge on the North Side.

A panic followed the accident and the passengers, most of them women, fought to escape through the one exit of the bus.

The force of the crash sheared off a large portion of the top of the machine.

Albert Grossman, the driver, said "I simply mistook Montrose avenue for Wilson avenue. I became confused following a wave of traffic. The cars ahead made the turn and so did I."

The Montrose avenue underpass is two feet too low to allow a double-decked bus to pass.

The three seriously injured were Miss Julia M. Walsh, who suffered a fractured upper jaw and the loss of five teeth; Mrs. Dora Monkos, probable skull fracture and internal injuries, and Mrs. Marcelle Alumbaugh, fractured right leg.

The first American canner to use tin cans as containers instead of glass jars was William Underwood of Boston. As early as 1821, he packed fruits and berries and was the first to pack tomatoes in cans.

CHIEFS URGE FDR BALANCE BUDGET IN FISCAL YEAR

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The administration's two chief fiscal officers will urge President Roosevelt to balance the budget in the next fiscal year, informed officials said today, even if it requires new and heavier taxes.

These persons said Secretary Morgenthau and Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board are convinced a balance between income and spending is essential to bolster business confidence and permit a paring down of the $36,864,000,000 public debt.

Although neither has commented on the recent stock market decline, authorities pictured both as believing this drop probably resulted in part from business uncertainty over the government's future fiscal course.

Morgenthau, seeking to eliminate the red-ink entries written on Federal account books since 1931, already has started a series of conferences about balancing the budget in 1938-39.

At his press conference late yesterday, he said "we are exploring every avenue through which savings might be effected" during the current fiscal year.

The deficit stands now at $247,000,000, compared with Mr. Roosevelt's estimate of $318,000,000 for the entire fiscal year. Treasury authorities said they were hopeful the deficit could be held under the President's estimate, but expressed doubt it could be eliminated entirely.

Ogle Co. Farmers To Plan Winter Programs Tonight

Directors of Ogle County Farm Bureau in 20 communities have been asked to bring program planning committees to a central meeting at Oregon, Tuesday evening, September 28, to plan community meeting plans for the coming fall, winter and spring season. It is proposed that the several communities hold regular meetings in which information will be provided which will make the meetings enjoyable as social occasions as well as educational.

Since a year ago when a similar program planning meeting was held, 11 communities have held a total of 75 meetings in which the attendance has ranged from 25 to 200 persons per meeting. Farm Advisor D. E. Warren states that these meetings have been beneficial in distributing to the farm families of the county information on extension services and in developing a better understanding and greater interest in farm organization.

ASKS LAWYERS TO GUARD THE CONSTITUTION

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—John F. Voight, president of the Illinois State Bar Association, called upon lawyers today to keep the public "constantly aware" of the provisions of the Constitution and turn back "this awful challenge" that faces the people.

Writing in the Illinois State Bar Journal, Voight, a Chicagoan, described the "inalienable blessings secured to them (the public) by that great charter of human liberties" and urged a fight against forces "which are seeking to undermine the orderly processes of government and take from the American people their precious rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

NOTHING TO SAY

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Prof. R. D. Scott of Nebraska university, who returned from a summer tour of Europe, is somewhat of a non-conformist in these parts.

Said Professor Scott: "I have nothing to say about the European war situation."

"I have nothing to say about the youth movement."

"I have made no exhaustive analysis of economic trends nor have I developed any profound theories, sound or otherwise, concerning the recent movement toward development of totalitarian states."

The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that insects destroy about 10 per cent of all crops produced.

GOOD FOOD IS ESSENTIAL TO GOOD HEALTH

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 28.—Good grades are up to the school child, but good lunches which lead to health and hence to excellent scholarship are up to mother.

In a year of plenty, there is no end of variation which can go into a dinner pail if menus are planned a little ahead of time, suggests Miss Glenna Henderson, extension specialist in foods, college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Some lunch box do's are: First, always include milk in some form, raw vegetable and fruit—the three health essentials—which along with sandwiches and a light sweet, provide the adequate meal.

Second, make use of the large crop of tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, and carrots and the exceptional fruit crop of peaches, pears, apples and grapes.

Third, create variety in the meal by occasionally flavoring milk with chocolate or cinnamon syrups or by using it in the form of cottage cheese or cheese; by making sandwiches from all kinds of bread such as prune, nut, wholewheat, rye and oatmeal, and by including desserts like cookies, sponge cake, unfrosted cup cakes or an occasional piece of candy.

Fourth, use a lunch box which permits space for jars of canned fruit, salad, rice pudding, custard, cereal pudding and other cooked desserts, which are healthful and take the place of heavy pie or cake.

Fifth, prepare and wrap sandwiches so that they will be appetizing after three hours of waiting on a school room shelf.

Some lunch-box don'ts are: First, don't make too large or too heavy a lunch. Heavy, greasy sandwiches and desserts are hard to digest and the child is likely to have a dull, stupid feeling after eating.

Second, don't wait until the morning of school to think about the lunch. Plan it while preparing supper the night before.

Third, don't expect food to stay in good condition if sonny carries it to school in a fragile container.

Horner Wants Extra Session of Assembly

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Governor Horner, back from a two-day fishing trip into Wisconsin, said today he wanted the legislature to meet in special session in time to submit a constitutional convention proposal to a referendum in November, 1938.

The governor declared, however, that he has not decided when it will be called.

A decision is to be reached soon about the calling of a special election in the third Supreme Court district to name a successor to the late Justice Lott R. Herrick.

STUDY MINIMUM CHARGE FOR SOFT COAL INDUSTRY

Classification Controversy Again Has Bobbed Up

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The four-year-old controversy over classification of soft coal for price-fixing purposes bobbed up again today as the national bituminous coal commission sought to speed its determination of minimum charges for the 450,000,000-ton industry.

The commission, at a hearing yesterday, rejected classifications proposed by producers in western Pennsylvania, Ohio, southeast West Virginia, and the district comprising southwest West Virginia, western Virginia, eastern Kentucky and Tennessee.

The rejections were based on the charge the producers' classifications included not only chemical and physical analyses the commission requested, but groupings according to uses.

Commission representatives said the body intended to reopen consideration of a protest against Ray Edmundson as a member of the coal producers board for the Illinois district.

The protest was filed by the Progressive Miners of America, an Illinois organization, but the commission affirmed the appointment of Edmundson, district president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Edmundson said he assumed the charge the producers wanted to present further evidence that their union had a preponderance of membership among Illinois miners and therefore was entitled to representation on the board.

He claimed, however, that the U. M. W. A. had "about a three to one majority membership."

Dykes Shoots Good Golf, Cards 77 In White Sox Tourney

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Whether it's baseball or golf, Manager Jimmy Dykes can give his Chicago White Sox teammates a lesson.

The chubby Sox pilot shot a 77 yesterday as the Chicago team held its annual golf tournament and Jimmy's score was the best of the event. Jackie Hayes and Coach Muddy Ruel each carded 80's for second place.

SECOND LESSON IN LEADERSHIP THIS EVENING

The Interdenominational leadership training school will meet this evening for its second session at the First Presbyterian church, Third street at Galena avenue. Over 75 workers from eight churches of the community have enrolled in the school which is sponsored by the Dixon Ministerial Association. The subject for study this evening will be "Laws of Learning and Methods of Teaching." Father B. Norman Burke, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, will be the instructor for this session of the class, and requests that members read in advance chapters IV to VI in the textbook, "Teaching Religion."

The school will open promptly at 7:30 p. m., with a devotional period under the leadership of Rev. C. L. Wagner, recently installed pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church. Following the study period will come a practical planning period, in which the school will divide into five groups to discuss problems pertaining to the various departments of the church school. The leaders of these discussion groups will be as follows: Administrative (general superintendents, secretaries, and other officers), Theodore Mason, chairman; beginner and primary department teachers and superintendents, Miss Goldie Giegous, chairman; junior and intermediate department, Mrs. Orville LeGore, chairman; senior and young people's department, Mrs. Ray Herbert, chairman; adult department, B. J. Frazier, chairman.

The school will adjourn promptly at 9 o'clock. Following adjournment the workers of the Christian church school will be hosts at an informal social hour at which light refreshments will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in this work to attend this evening, even though not previously registered. There is no charge for registration.

FMA FILES PROTEST
Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Progressive miners at Eldorado protested to the state department of mines and minerals against the plan to pump out the Sahara Coal Company's Harrisburg mine, while two other mines at Eldorado and Muddy remain idle. The state let the contract for pumps several weeks ago.

"RALLY DAY" IN DIXON CHURCHES BEING STRESSED

Ministers Hope To Make Next Sunday Real Red Letter Day

The ministers of Dixon are anxious to make next Sunday, the annual rally day in most church schools, a red letter day for all the churches. The Ministerial Association is making a united appeal for a large enrollment of boys and girls and young people, and adults too, in the various Sunday schools of the city. It is hoped that a large number not now attending anywhere, will elect a church school and go there next Sunday and enroll as a regular attendant.

The cooperation of the parents of the city is earnestly desired. Without the personal interest of the parents in the matter, it will be more difficult to enlist the young people. But if a large number of parents will take an interest in the movement and urge upon their children the importance of going to Sunday school, splendid results will be achieved. It would seem reasonable to expect fathers and mothers who are so willing to sacrifice for their children in order that they may have the best mental training through our splendid week-day schools, would also devote the same kind of care that their children might receive religious training if it is worth while to see that your children are in school to receive training of mind and body, how essential also is it that they be sent to the church schools that will prepare them in heart and character to make the most of their lives and to receive most from life. Without religion there can be no well-balanced development. The churches of Dixon are splendidly equipped to serve all the people of the community and stand ready to do all in their power to help you advance in the more abundant life.

Here is an interesting testimonial from a seventh grade girl, Miss Margaret Kling of 620 Brinton Ave., who is a regular attendant at Sunday school: She writes upon, "What Sunday School Means to Me," "I think Sunday school means very much to me. It educates me to publicly express my love for God and Christ. It teaches me to stay to church. I may express my opinions in discussion of the Bible. Every young person should attend Sunday school. The future of this country rests on young people's shoulders. They should have religious training."

Dixon School Boy Grows Small Plot Of Cotton Here

While Dixon is not in the cotton belt, Junior Madden, 13 years old, a seventh grade pupil in the South Central school, has proved to his own satisfaction that cotton can be grown in the city. Junior brought to The Telegraph office today a number of cotton plants on which the bolls were well developed. He said his father gave him the seed and he planted a small plot at his home, 713 Second street. Junior expects some of the bolls will be completely developed in a few days, but his cotton crop will not be so extensive as to create any serious marketing problem. Last season quite a patch of cotton was grown by a horticulturist near Mt. Morris.

FIVE DIXON BOY SCOUT TROOPS NOW FUNCTION

In order that the boys of Dixon may have the opportunity to participate in the program of the Boy Scouts of America during the coming months the following troops are organized and functioning at present:

The First Presbyterian church is taking steps to organize a troop which will be functioning in the near future.

Even though all of the troops are sponsored by churches none of them are strictly church troops. They are all open to any boy in the city regardless of his church connection. Boy Scouting knows no race or class.

Surveys show that there are many boys in Dixon of the ages 12 and 13 years who are not now Scouts who want to be. Each and every one of these boys is invited to attend one of the Scout meetings this evening or as soon as possible.

Scouts in uniform are asked to report at the Chamber of Commerce at 7 o'clock this evening for service in the parade. There will be need for several uniformed Scouts at the front of the high school Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 to help with the pet parade.

DUCE AND HITLER MAKE WORLD-WIDE BROADCAST TODAY

Berlin, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The heads of the world's greatest Fascist powers, Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler, united today for what official circles pictured as an appeal for peaceful collaboration with all nations of "good will."

Nearly a million residents of Berlin thronged early toward Mayfield Olympic Stadium to see and hear Hitler, the host, and Mussolini, the guest, in their world-wide broadcast.

It was the fourth day of the Italian Premier's history-making, five-day visit of state to Germany. There was a strong indication qualifying "strings" were attached to the side-by-side appeal prepared by the two heads of state. The limitation of collaboration with "all other peoples of good will" was sponsored by Mussolini in an exchange of toasts last night at a state banquet in his honor.

That in itself would cover considerable ground—excluding Soviet Russia and Republican Spain, for example. Previous Italo-German manifestations have made clear that the Fascist governments do not regard these two as "peoples of good will."

But there was a hint of even greater limitation of the axial amity between Rome and Berlin—this, too, apparently inspired by Il Duce.

The editor-in-chief of Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, in an article from Berlin said Hitler and his guest would raise their voices for a "parity of right."

Navy Lieutenant To Wed N. Y. Socialite
Roslyn, L. I., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Lieut. Walter D. Coleman of the U. S. S. Augusta flagship of the Asiatic squadron stationed in the Far Eastern waters, has arrived here on leave of duty to be married Saturday to Miss Jean Newhall Willets of Roslyn.

Lieutenant Coleman, a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Coleman of Lincoln, Ill., was graduated from the naval academy in 1932. He was a member of the football and track teams.

His bride-to-be made her debut about three years ago in New York City. She is a granddaughter of E. Walter Clark, Philadelphia yachtsman and owner of the America's Cup defender, Resolute.

LLOYDS INTEND TO ADHERE TO ILLINOIS LAWS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The famous insurance underwriters at Lloyd's of London, who objected to enactment of the new insurance code, intend to comply with it and continue to do business in Illinois. Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, announced today he had continued for three months until December 31, the temporary permit under which the British firms have done business in Illinois since the code became effective July 1.

The extension was requested by John S. Lord of Chicago, attorney in fact for London's Lloyds, who said in a letter that efforts have been made to comply with the revised law and added:

"If further time can be granted we believe that matters can be arranged so that complete compliance with the code may be had before the end of the year."

When Palmer's revision of insurance laws was before the legislature for the third time this year, representatives of Lloyd's opposed it with threats that the stringent provisions would force them to withdraw from the state.

Under the temporary permit, which has been limited in scope, the underwriters at Lloyd's keep a $2,350,000 deposit in Illinois for the protection of policy holders.

The violin was a gift to Menuhin, on his 12th birthday, from Henry Goldman of New York.

THERE ARE HARD WINNERS

Everybody has heard of hard losers. Some times we see hard winners. Dr. Glenn Frank, late president of the University of Wisconsin, seems to be such a one. He spoke to the Indiana Republican Editorial association last week, perhaps as one willing to accept the nomination of somebody for president of the United States, and declared himself as follows:

"I belong to a growing army of Americans, in both republican and democratic parties, who can best be described as reluctant rebels against the New Deal. We are reluctant because we believe in the broad social objectives outlined by Mr. Roosevelt at the outset of his administration. We want to see the lower third of the population better fed, better clothed, and better housed. We want the ghost of involuntary unemployment laid away once and for all."

Not even a standpatter could object to that. Frank goes on:

"We want hours short enough, wages high enough, and working conditions good enough to make life a satisfying adventure for the working millions. We want the farmer to have a square deal along with the urban worker. We want the federal government to have every power it actually needs to govern effectively under modern circumstances."

Now, there is a commitment you can tie to. It reminds us of a corn belt statesman whose stock speech was:

"I am in favor of a revision of the tariff. Duties that are too high should be lowered and duties that are too low should be made higher."

He took no chances.

Dr. Frank pursues the issue thus:

"And yet we are rebels against the New Deal for the simple reason that our knowledge of facts and our best judgment tell us that many measures now being advanced will lead us away from rather than toward these very goals."

Dr. Frank should exclaim with Lincoln Steffens of the so-called "progressive" era, "The trouble with us reformers is that we won!"

It was two years before the New Deal came into flower that Steffens, premier of the muckrakers of the period of Roosevelt the First, was led back over those merry magazine days in an interview, in which he developed his theme as follows:

"Since the start of the muckraking movement we have put over the anti-trust laws, prohibition, the referendum and recall, the direct primary, the regulation of public utilities, and the direct election of United States senators. We have gone a long way in establishing the commission form of government and the city manager system. We have drawn the lines against the power monopoly and driven ahead in the public ownership fight. We made the war and we made the peace."

"Make no mistake about it—under President Wilson's leadership it was the liberals who made war and peace. So, summing it all up, we won. There's no doubt about that."

"But, with all this fighting, with all these victories, we did not change, affect, or improve any single essential. In fact, we fought over almost everything but the essentials. Instead of trying to find out why men behave in certain ways, we tried to make them behave our way. We knew nothing and discovered nothing about motivations of conduct. . . . The reformer won't let life go its own way. He makes rigid molds out of words—virtue, democracy, justice, liberty—and tries to pour his stuff into them. Laws are to him instruments for making other men behave according to his ideas. When he starts multiplying laws, the worst thing that can happen to him is to win. And, to repeat, that's what happened to us. We won."

Some of us protested that the craze for more democracy would consume itself and bring autocracy, but the killing germ was in the air, and they won.

When Lincoln Steffens was moralizing on the essential weakness in their "progressive" victories, Dr. Frank and other regiments of reform were on their way to new victories. They won, and Dr. Frank seems to be a "hard winner."

Dr. Frank and his friends took the snowball where Steffens and his socialists had left it, and now they express wonderment that it kept on gathering snow all the way down the hill. They thought they could roll it down without having it increase any in size, or increase any in force when it struck the barriers that had been set up for safety.

Changing the metaphor from winter to spring, they thought they could sow tares and reap wheat. Changing it to flood time, they thought a little hole in the dike would do no harm.

Men who were fearful of starting the snowball, men who knew that you couldn't sow tares and reap wheat, men who knew what a little hole in the dike would become were brushed aside as obstructionists, standpatters, fogies, and anything that would excite hatred in hearts of the masses who looked upon the demagogue as life's greatest hope.

Frank and his friends won, but, like Steffens, they are engulfed in the results of their victory.

"The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done; and there is no new thing under the sun."

"Is there anything wherof it may be said, See, this is new? it hath been already of old time, which was before us."

THE STABILITY OF CONTRACTS

"Thus the stability of the trade union contract is being brought seriously into question under existing law," says a report of the executive board of the Illinois Federation of Labor, referring to the manner in which the national labor board undertook to violate the agreement between a unit of the American Federation of Labor and a manufacturing corporation.

If there is one thing that has disappeared from governmental standards, it is the stability of contracts. No longer does the word of the government—even the written word—mean that the government will do what it pledged itself to do.

That is one of the greatest losses the people have sustained in their efforts to grasp the more abundant life. The populace is riding along now on a confidence in their government established by rigid principles of honesty heretofore established. We have not yet begun to realize what damage was done by repudiation of contracts written with blood and treasure.

New Fence Lines Follow Erosion Control Program

Old fence lines, which generally followed original farm surveys, roads or more often the personal whim of the first owner, are being rearranged by farmers who are trying to control soil erosion by farming with the "lay of the land." A recent national survey shows farmers co-operating with the federal soil conservation service have constructed or reallocated approximately 14,000 miles of fence during the last three years. One of the most important reasons for changing field boundaries has been the widespread adoption of contour cultivation; the practice of running crop rows around sloping hills instead of up and down the hill-sides. Farmers also are using fences to protect new woodlands and woodlands in which erosion control is under way from grazing, to keep livestock out of gullies that are being stabilized with vegetation, farm ponds, areas retired to permanent grasses and other places on the farm where trampling and overgrazing would lead to accelerated soil erosion. Farmers of Lee and Ogle counties who are changing fence lines to meet these conditions find that the electric fence is ideal for the purpose. In constructing this fence no back-breaking post-hole digging is necessary and one to two strands of wire are sufficient to protect fields from livestock.

Predict Leadership Of Superintendents

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Dean T. E. Benner of the University of Illinois college of education predicted "the county superintendent of schools will become an outstanding leader in public education during the next two decades."

Addressing the opening session of the five-day conference of the Association of County School Superintendents yesterday, Dean Benner said, "With adequate staffs and proper authority," county superintendents will become important educational leaders.

Other speakers included R. B. Browne, director of the university's extension division; Albert Walker, Moultrie county, president of the association, and Mabel Carney, of Columbia university.

Highway Safety to Be Stressed in Local Campaign at Once

Plans for a safety campaign in Dixon in conjunction with the Illinois Safety League campaign, perfected by the Hon Edward C. Hunter and other state representatives associated in the legislature, were announced today.

A safety car, fully equipped with sound equipment, approved by state and city officials, will tour a district comprising approximately one-third of the state. Cars for other districts will be started as soon as arrangements can be made to spread the message of highway safety.

The campaign will start in Dixon at once, by creating a Safety League Patrol, comprising a chairman and 25 honorary members. All members will be supplied with safety tickets and will report all violations witnessed to the Chief of Police for city violations and to the Sheriff for county violations. Any violator will by this method have a chance to clear his or her record before an arrest is made.

The program was inspired by the unfavorable highway toll in Illinois communities, as revealed during the discussion of the proposed driver's license law.

The safety car and program have the endorsement of all high government officials, including Governor Horner, Lieutenant Governor John Steele, and heads of the State Highway Department, also the mayors, chiefs of police and sheriffs, et al of different sections.

In Dixon the plan has the support of Mayor Slothower, Com. of Public Health Cal G. Tyler, Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber and Sheriff Ward Miller. Numerous organizations are in full accord and will be affiliated.

Oscar of Waldorf To be Honored at Hotel Dinner Oct. 6

Members of fifteen leading hotel and culinary organizations will join with prominent men and women of the city in paying tribute to "Oscar of the Waldorf" and his wife at a dinner in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, on Oct. 7.

The testimonial dinner will celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of the noted host, in private life Oscar Tschirky and Mrs. Tschirky.

Oscar, who has been with the Waldorf, both the old and the new, for the last forty-four years, greeting outstanding figures in international society and even royalty, is in his 71st year. While he is a world famed authority on cuisine, he represents the title of chef.

"I am not a chef and never have been one," he said emphatically today in his office at the hotel. "Away back in 1894 I published 'Oscar's Cook Book,' and on account of that, I suppose, people took it for granted that I was a chef. I only supervise the cuisine. My success as 'Oscar of the Waldorf' is entirely due to my wife."

Many Dixonites have enjoyed the cuisine of the Waldorf Astoria under the direction of the famous Oscar.

Rancid Flavor in Breakfast Bacon Can be Retarded

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 28 — Illinois homemakers interested in keeping home-butchered bacon from becoming rancid and moldy this winter may find that use of oat flour will do the trick to a satisfactory degree.

This fact was found out in a series of carefully regulated experiments on many samples of unsliced and sliced bacon, stored and tested by the department of animal husbandry with the cooperation of home economics, college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Further experiments are planned.

Thus it would seem that grandfather who buried cured ham and bacon in the oats bin and father who still maintains this custom, might not have been so far wrong after all!

Rancidity in unsliced bacon, it was found, is distinctly retarded when 10 per cent of oat flour made from the entire oat grain is added to the original curing mixture. The regular curing mixture in this case was 3 pounds of salt, 1½ pounds of granulated sugar, and 4 ounces of sodium nitrate for each 100 pounds of meat.

Bacon which had been cured and smoked, then sliced and dusted with 1 per cent of oat flour without the hull showed fewer signs of rancidity and mold than that given the regular treatment. From the palatability standpoint the oat-cured bacon in most cases was judged to be better tasting than the regularly cured meat.

The rancid condition which develops in meats and lard is the result of oxidation of some of the fats with formation of products which give off disagreeable odors and flavors. Oat-flour, which is judged harmless from the health viewpoint, has been found to retard development of rancidity in potato chips, fish, nuts and other food products which are likely to change composition upon storage.

Further details as to method used to cure the bacon samples are available from the department of animal husbandry, college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

DAILY HEALTH

PHYSICAL CONDITIONS AND BEHAVIOR

By Iago Galdston, M. D.

Behavior should be understood first and judged later.

All of us are too prone to label the "problem child" with some disapproving term, and let it go at that. This child is negativistic; that one too aggressive; this one is destructive, and the other generally mischievous. Far from explaining the child's behavior, or pointing the way to a remedy, such terms only express our resentment and frustration.

Suppose, instead of judging, we tried to understand. Presumably there is some adequate reason why the "problem child" has its behavior difficulties. Where shall we begin? A good start is to study his physical condition.

First, what defects does he have? A thorough medical examination will uncover these. Is the child underweight, malnourished? Has he defective hearing, bad eyesight, diseased tonsils and adenoids, or badly decayed and infected teeth? Any of these disabilities may seriously drain the vitality of the child, and cause, or add to, his behavior difficulties.

How does the child measure up to the demands made upon him? The normal is not fixed, but varies within wide margins. Not all normal children are alike in size, weight, muscular strength, coordination, agility, speed, mental capacity, learning speed and the like.

Because your next door neighbor's youngster, 10 years of age, can do so and so, is not sufficient warrant for expecting your own 10-year-old to do as much or as well in identical respects. Your own child may be normally different. One easy way to turn a well-adjusted youngster into a problem child is to expect and demand of him more than he can perform or attain.

Therefore not only freedom from physical defects, but the adjustment of demands to the inherent capacity of the child, should be sought.

Of course, it is not likely that the child's physical condition will in each instance entirely account for his undesirable behavior, nor that the improvement of the first will correct the second. But a child in good physical condition, free from infections, chronic fatigue and sense disabilities, is good material to work with psychologically.

had approved the condemnation without dissenting vote.

The advisory committee's meeting scheduled for today suddenly was canceled with no reason publicly ascribed but reports were current leading delegations wished more time to explore the problem of what more could be done to deal practically with the Far Eastern crisis.

No Action on Spain

France and Britain joined hands to forestall league action in the Spanish civil war, inferring they wished first to get Premier Mussolini to agree to withdraw Italian volunteers from the Spanish insurgent army.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France announced this policy before the league committee on political questions which is considering Spain's appeal against what it charges is "Fascist invasion."

Referring to proposed conversations by France, Britain and Italy on the question of volunteers, Delbos said, "the moment has come when a clear declaration must be made, followed by effective action."

The French government, he said, sees good reason to make further effort "to insure that the undertaking of non intervention is observed by all and to preserve the political independence and territorial integrity of Spain."

"The withdrawal of foreign combatants from Spain is of peculiar urgency. If this effort should fail, the whole situation then inevitably must be examined anew."

He declared the non-intervention agreement, despite acknowledged violations, had at least succeeded in "safeguarding European peace in the face of a thousand threats."

The sub-committee to prepare and draft the resolution on Spain's appeal to the league again, alleged Italian and German aggression went into action at the close of today's debate on the Spanish crisis.

Tokyo, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The naval ministry issued a categorical denial today of reports from Hongkong that a Japanese submarine sank a fleet of Chinese fishing vessels and charged the story was an example of "fabricated propaganda."

Then Chinese were brought to Hongkong yesterday by the German liner Scharnhorst which had rescued them from the fishing junk they said was the only one of 12 to survive an attack by a Japanese submarine. They declared 300 lives were lost.

The British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Robert Craigie, made the third declaration when he called upon the Japanese vice minister of foreign affairs and delivered British memoranda relating to the earlier protests.

Sir Robert called attention to the Japanese that bombs had struck the central hospital at Nanking. The Japanese vice minister, informed sources declared, gave assurances that "extreme care" is being taken not to bomb Chinese civilian centers.

Centenarian No

Rare Inhabitant

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—No longer is the centenarian regarded as a rare object by Illinois public health officials.

The health department reported today that 46 of last year's deaths were persons who had passed the 100-year span, while 24 were between 95 and 100.

Pointing out that living to age 75 is a privilege of more than one of each five inhabitants, the department reported that 40,070 of the persons who died last year were over 65. A total of 10,948 were over 80, while 20,498 were in excess of 75.

Heart impairment, nephritis, cancer, arteriosclerosis, diabetes and rheumatism were listed as the chief disabling conditions of later life.

Meanwhile, the department reported that diphtheria, with 48 fresh cases last week, climbed to the highest incidence of the year.

Scarlet fever and pneumonia increased sharply with 156 and 122 new cases, respectively.

Polio Reported

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Four new cases of infantile paralysis reported to the Board of Health for the 24 hours ended at 9 A. M. today maintained the low level which resulted in the opening of the upper seven grades of the elementary schools yesterday.

Four new cases had been reported for Saturday and only two for Sunday.

Dr. Herman N. Bunsen, board president, would not predict when the 62,000 first grade and kindergarten pupils might be allowed to return to classes.

TAVERN OWNERS
MEET TO TALK
OF TEMPERANCE

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Three hundred tavern owners sipped soft drinks today and said "the tavern must go"—at least some taverns.

Described by its members as the "most aggressive temperance organization in the state," the Retail Liquor Protective Association of Illinois opened its 52nd annual convention by seeking a limit to the number of drink-dispensing places.

These 300 men represent 6000 members of the association who are anxious, they said, to promote temperance and law observance on the part of tavern owners and citizens alike.

Such factors alone "can make repeal successful in Illinois," said Edward A. Meyer, secretary of the group.

"The members realize that only by following the wishes of the people and cooperating for law enforcement will it be possible to avoid a gradual return to the drunkenness of Prohibition by the local option route," Meyer said.

Heading the program of discussion at a luncheon which attracted mayor and liquor commissioners from cities throughout the state was the problem of limitation of taverns.

Meyer said such limitation, possibly to one tavern for each 700 of population, and the adoption of a fair price code which would outlaw nickel beer and fix minimum prices for liquor by the drink, would enable tavern keepers to earn a decent living and so "remove the temptation for laxity in law observance."

Among the cities expected to be represented by their mayors were Rock Island, Freeport, Champaign, Joliet and Pekin.

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Life is just trouble, trouble, trouble and worry, worry, worry for young Freddie Bartholomew.

Right in the middle of his court fight for more money from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer come Mama and Papa Bartholomew, waiting to take him away from his Aunt Mylicent.

Attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Llewellyn Bartholomew, Freddie's parents, filed notice in Superior court yesterday they would petition to have his adoption by his aunt last April 3 set aside on grounds of fraud. Hearing was set for Friday.

Attorney Avery Blount explained the parents believed a signed statement in which the aunt promised to return their son at their request was binding despite the adoption, to which they consented.

CUBS LOSING MORE GROUND IN EACH TILT

Beat Reds 7-4, But Giants Win Two On Ten Hits

By BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

Like the man trying to go up on the down escalator, the Cubs are sliding back each time they take a forward step.

They thought they'd taken a pretty good one when they whipped the Reds yesterday, 7-4—thought so, that is, until the Giants up and took both halves of their doubleheader with the Bees. All of which meant that, despite winning, Charles Grimm's grimmer-growing crew had lost another half game.

Today they were trailing by four and a half, with only six left to play to the Giants' nine.

The picture, in fact, is getting prettier by the minute for the Giants, who proved by stopping the Bees, 3-4 and 3-1, that they can win two games on 10 hits with just as much ease as the American League World Series entry, the Yanks, win one with 20.

In the opener, with the score tied at 4-4 in the last of the eighth, the Giants filled the bases on an error, a single and a walk. At that point the usually reliable Lou Fette, running true to the rule that he can't whip the Polo Grounders, committed a balk—and boom, there went the half game.

Turner Blows Up

In the night-cap Jim Turner set the Giants down in order for six innings and got one away in the eighth with the score 1-1. The next batter singled, then Turner, with the second out in his grasp, fumbled Bill Lohrman's bunt. He retired Joe Moore, but Dick Bartell broke up his party with a two-run double.

Lohrman, fresh out of the International league, earned himself a handsome set of freshman spurs by hurling a five-hitter—the Giants got four—that ran the club's winning streak to six straight and evened the score for the season at 10 games each.

While the Cubs were handing the Reds their seventh loss in a row, the Dodgers gracefully dropped their twelfth to the Phillies, 11-3, in a game remarkable chiefly for Chuck Klein's two homers and long Tom Winsett's debut as a pitcher. He gave up two of the runs.

The Indians, playing their last home game, bowed to the Tigers, 2-1. Buck Newsom, after beating the Athletics, 6-2, with a five-hitter in the first game, tried to come back in the night-cap for the Red Sox, but gave up six walks in less than three innings and the Sox were shut out, 6-0.

The Yanks and Senators were rained out, while the other clubs were not scheduled.

BIG TEN TEAMS PREPARING FOR WEEK END TILTS

One of Coaches Seems to Have Been Satisfied With Play

Chicago, Sept. 28—(AP)—Minnesota's Gophers aren't going to forget—at least for a few days—that touchdown North Dakota State scored on them last Saturday.

The Gophers may have scored 69 points as their opening opponent was getting just seven, but Coach Bernie Bierman kept busy today on a program of reminding his charges that the 10 touchdowns against North Dakota State won't help them a bit Saturday against the tough and rough Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Bierman isn't satisfied with his pass defense and indicated he believed his Gophers could have blocked more consistently. Pass defense also occupied Michigan's Wolverines, prepping for Michigan State Saturday.

Ohio State, with an open date ahead, also drilled on pass defense. At Wisconsin, Coach Harry Stuhldreher rewarded Wallie Cole for his showing against South Dakota State by announcing he would lead the Badgers against Marquette. Northwestern, hearing glowing reports about the passing strength of Iowa State, next Saturday's opponent for the Wildcats, drilled on defense against aerials.

Indiana, with an open date ahead, also drilled on pass defense. At Wisconsin, Coach Harry Stuhldreher rewarded Wallie Cole for his showing against South Dakota State by announcing he would lead the Badgers against Marquette. Northwestern, hearing glowing reports about the passing strength of Iowa State, next Saturday's opponent for the Wildcats, drilled on defense against aerials.

Illini Work on Defense
Bob Zuppke used seven-man teams in a pass-defense drill, indicating he didn't care much for the lone touchdown Ohio University scored on his Illini Saturday via the overhead route. Chicago's Maroons, who will open Saturday at Nashville against the strong Vanderbilt Commodores, practiced blocking and tackling.

Iowa, returning from Seattle after a defeat by Washington, has an open date next week-end, a breather against Bradley Tech October 9 and its first Big Ten tilt October 16 against Wisconsin.

At Notre Dame, Coach Elmer Layden indicated he was not satisfied with the blocking of his regulars in a scrimmage with the freshmen over the week end.

Walton Girls Beat Amboy Girls S-Ball Team by 12-5 Score

Walton's girls' softball team defeated Amboy girls on the Amboy diamond by a score of 12 to 5.

Arvilla Dempsey allowed ten hits. It was the first game she pitched this year. Edith Ackert, Walton's pitcher, is attending school at the University of Illinois. Mary Dempsey made a home run.

Umpires were Stiel and Weser.

PICARD ASSUMES FAVORITE ROLE, BELMONT OPEN

Belmont, Mass., Sept. 28—(AP)—Henry Picard's par-smashing parade through the $12,000 Belmont open match play tournament put him in the role of favorite today against his Pennsylvania golfing neighbor, Byron Nelson, in a 36-hole final.

The Hersey, Pa., pro, who qualified for the final with a 7 and 6 victory over Ralph Guidahl, national open champion, was 22 strokes under par for the 122 holes he has played against four rivals.

Nelson, from Reading, Pa., advanced to the final by turning back Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Chicago, 5 and 4, registering 14 under par for 137 holes of match play.

Picard, born in nearby Plymouth and competing in his native state for the first time since his caddyship days, conquered Lawson Little, 6 and 4 in his quarter-final match, and eliminated Wiffy Cox, 4 and 3. Tom Mahan of Beverly, 5 and 4, and Dan Galgano, 6 and 5.

Nelson won 6-4. Nelson's Sunday triumph was a 6 and 4 decision over Charles Lacey, but he was forced to go to the home green with Ray Mangrum and Frank Walsh and to an extra hole in his 18-hole first-rounder with Johnny Levinson, the New England amateur champion. Today's final was worth $3,000 to the winner and $2,000 to the loser. Guidahl and Cooper received $700 shares of the prize money when they were eliminated, a sum that boosted "Lighthorse" Harry's 1937 winnings to almost $13,000.

Two Bradley Backs Grab Scoring Lead In College League

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 28—(AP)—Two Bradley backs, Ted Panish and Bob Theus, were out in front today in the race for Illinois intercollegiate conference grid scoring honors. Panish, who paced the 1936 scorers with 54 points, and Theus each scored two touchdowns in Bradley's 53 to 0 defeat of Eureka.

Here and There In Sports World

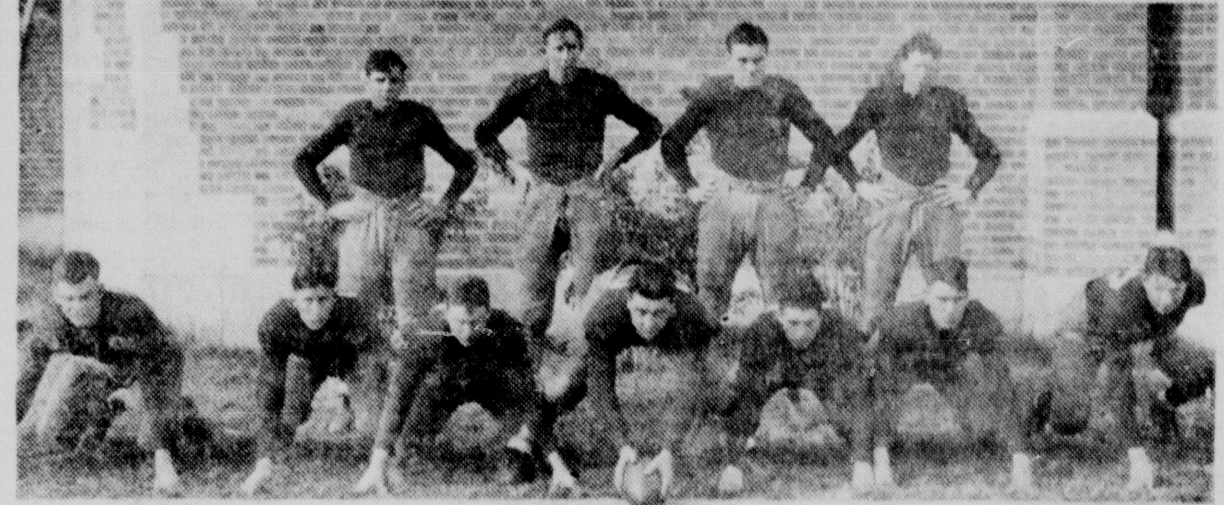

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 28—(AP)—Signs of a jittery World Series: Joe McCarthy didn't go to Washington with the Yanks but stayed here personally to scout the Giants. Marcel Thil and his easy-to-look-at Georgette sail for France Friday. Tiredest guy around is the photo finish chap at Rockingham park. Only eight days of the 24-day meeting have gone into history, but more than half the races run so far have been decided by the silent films. Texas has gone hog wild over football. Dirt Track Racer Killed in Nashville

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 28—(AP)—Three dirt track auto racers were in a Nashville hospital today with injuries received in a smash-up which took the life of another driver at the state fair yesterday.

Howard (Hoddy) Cox of Dallas, Tex., was killed in the four-car pile-up in the final event of the fair race program at the 25-mile sweepstakes race.

Hospital attendants said none of the injured—Ted Horn of Los Angeles, Duke Nalon of Chicago and Vern Orenduff of Tallahassee, Fla.—was in a serious condition.

Nalon was leading the field by about a lap when the crash came.

COLUMBUS PLAYS NEWARK; LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Both Farm Teams Of Cards, And Yanks Respectively

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28—(AP)—It's "farm" team against "farm" team—representatives of the two major baseball chains—in the Little World Series opening in Newark tomorrow.

Winners of the pennants in the International league and American Association and survivors of extra-curricular play-off series, Newark and Columbus are the foes in the premier minor league classic. An argument for the farm system, their triumphs, as Newark is the No. 1 farm club in the New York Yankee chain, Columbus the top team in the far-flung St. Louis Cardinal domain.

Columbus won its place yesterday by beating Milwaukee, 10 to 4, to take the final American Association playoff, four game to two. Newark's Bears, dubbed the "wonder team" of the minor circuits, acquired their Little World Series assignment last week, defeating Syracuse and then Baltimore in the play-offs without losing a game after breezing into the International

Chats About Folks and Farming

By H. G. REMINGTON,
Farm Editor

Farm Adviser C. E. Yale is endeavoring to obtain from farm leaders their reactions to the suggestion that Lee county stage a county corn husking contest this fall. The state contest is to be held in Bureau county this year and some farmers are of the opinion Lee county should put on a contest in an endeavor to get an entrant for the state contest. Mr. Yale indicated the directors of the Farm Bureau would put on a contest if a sufficient number of farmers wish one. The state contest is November 1, so the suggested Lee county contest would need to be held this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hann of Franklin Grove township have entertained many visitors the last few weeks by reason of the fact that they have built what is considered one of the best type of poultry houses in Lee county. The building, 20 by 40 feet, has a straw loft and represents an investment of around $600 for materials and part of the labor. It has a concrete floor, the loft is ventilated by openings at either end of the building, with sliding doors which can be raised or lowered. The windows on all sides, including several beneath the roosts, are protected from side air currents, assuring plenty of light and comparative freedom from drafts. Roosts, nests, feeding and watering devices are well off the floor, permitting the birds to utilize the entire floor as a scratching place. This also permits easy cleaning of the house. Mr. and Mrs. Hann have a flock of 317 White Rocks, which will be culled in a few days. They expect to keep about 250 birds over the winter.

At the meeting of the Lee county poultry raisers at Amboy the other day Professor H. H. Alp of the state college of agriculture suggested a poultry ration for producers who prepare their own feed. It includes 30 pounds of corn, 20 of oats, 20 of wheat, 10 of midlings, 8 of alfalfa, 11 of meat scrap, 5 of soybean meal, five of milk and one of salt. To pep up slow producers he recommended feeding mash once a day, this to contain oat meal or corn meal. This mash also could be utilized for the codliver oil believed necessary for poultry during the winter feeding. Carrots and other green feed likewise could be included in this mash. Professor Alp advocated warm houses and plenty of water from which the chill has been removed as aids in egg production. Electric lights also were recommended if production begins to drop below normal. Early housing of birds was stressed as a profitable practice, and four square feet of space should be allotted each bird.

Louis Clark of the livestock marketing division of the Illinois Agricultural association told cattle feeders at the outlook meeting at Amboy that they should make larger use of their co-operative organization, the Chicago Producers, in the purchase of their feeders. He said the organization is prepared to acquire just the type of feeders that are needed to meet the feed situation on any farm.

The Illinois Farm Supply company, an auxiliary of the Illinois Agricultural association, will hold its annual meeting at Peoria October 20. An increased volume of business and operation for the last year is reported by officers of the company.

Farmers who are sowing wheat in this locality this fall will be interested in figures compiled by the National Fertilizer association which shows that each dollar spent for wheat land fertilization returns more than $3. The figures are based on current fertilizer prices and on results obtained by experiment stations and farmers who have used fertilizer on wheat. The amount of fertilizer applied to wheat has increased markedly in the last few years.

Holstein breeders from the Dixon area, Elmswood and Mooseheart are exhibiting a Holstein herd of ten animals at the National Dairy Congress at Waterloo, Iowa, this week.

It may be just a coincidence, but the safety department of the Illinois Agricultural association finds it rather remarkable that so many farm fires break out in rooms that are less dry than the rest of the house. The department points out that basements and attics are frequently the starting places for farm fires and suggests that farmers take a careful look at these two locations with an eye to cleaning out all unnecessary trash.

More than a dozen of the newer varieties have been established themselves as promising additions to the extensive acreage of small fruits now being grown in Illinois as a result of tests made by A. S. Colby, chief in small fruit culture in the department of horticulture, state college of agriculture. These include grapes, blackberries, raspberries, strawberries and currants. When a field is being robbed by sheet erosion the theft may go on for years without a farmer knowing it. Erosion which carves deep gullies is pretty obvious, but soil conservation workers in the department of agriculture know that sheet erosion works so slowly and quietly that it may not be evident until too late. If the corn has made a fine growth in the lower part of the field but up above the stand is thin and the plants have not done so well it means that sheet erosion has been at work. Putting a field with a steep slope into permanent pasture or hay land or strip cropping them on the contour are ways to control sheet erosion.

With Thanksgiving not so many weeks away the federal department of agriculture is handing on some tips on the marketing of turkeys. Turkeys intended for roasting are ready for market only at maturity, generally 24 to 28 weeks after hatching, say federal poultry specialists. In examining turkeys for market it is a good thing to look for pinfeathers. If all feathers are fairly well grown out it is safe to assume that the bird has reached maturity and should be in market condition. Pinfeathers also add to the difficulty of picking and result in an unattractive carcass, unless special effort is made to remove them all.

During the summer 966 4-H club girls of 32 Illinois counties made and exhibited a complete clothing outfit. The outfits ranged from those suitable for street and school to those for church and special occasions, including washable outfits as well as more elaborate costumes. Incidentally Miss Mary McKee, junior club specialist of the state college of agriculture, reports more than 1,750 persons attended club training schools with 273 leaders representing the clubs.

Improved farm leases mean better tenant farming and greater profits for both landlord and tenant. The department of agricultural economics of the state college has prepared a new circular, No. 474, "Farm Leases for Illinois," which discusses four types of leases suited to Illinois farming. Copies may be obtained by writing the college at Urbana.

There will be 13 per cent more pears produced this season than in 1936. Bartlett and Kieffer are most popular for canning, while the little Seckel pears are just right size for pickling.

Sowing oats thickly after leveling and tramping the silage is one way to prevent spoilage. Other methods are described in circular No. 463, "Silage Crops for Dairy Cattle," free to those writing the state college. This circular also states that sweet corn may be used for silage in the same way as field corn.

With silo-filling on most farms of Lee and Ogle counties finished last week, farmers will be unable to do comparatively little fall plowing before tackling the big corn crop in this area. Many farmers have indicated they will begin picking their corn about October 15. A few farmers have their work sufficiently advanced as to start sowing wheat this week. Dryness of the soil has delayed plowing.

Farmers' grain elevator companies in Illinois, which now number more than 400 and have a membership of 75,000 farmers, will handle a large proportion of the big crop of corn and soybeans being produced in the state this year, according to L. J. Norton, chief in agricultural marketing at the state college. He said farmers' organizations marketing grain in Illinois do an annual business of about $2 million dollars. There are a number of grain co-operatives in Lee and adjoining counties sharing in this business.

All except the old-timers perhaps have forgotten that Postmaster Fruin of Dixon was one of the best livestock salesmen in northern Illinois. A sale of Duroc hogs which took place in Dixon in November, 1918, set a new top in Illinois up to that time. Mr. Fruin at this sale disposed of 40 head of Durocs at an average price of $200. The sale took place in the old Baus feed barn, which was razed several months ago.

More than a score of farmers from the vicinity of Paw Paw, Franklin Grove and Ashton last week were guests of the DeKalb Seed Co. on a tour of farms and experiment fields, with particular stress being laid on hybrid corn. The farmers also visited the company's seed processing plant at Waterman. The different groups made the trip by bus.

Pointing out that the neighborly spirit is not on the decline in the country, the Ashton Gazette reports that a half dozen neighbors in the Bradford district plowed a 20-acre field on the Baldwin farm in two hours and 15 minutes. Those loaning tractors for the job were Ronald Linscott, Earl Ewald, George Warner, Glenn Henert, John Warner, Coy Warner and Clarence Henert.

Wade Donaldson, west of Polo, completed a new silo in time to preserve the 1937 corn crop. Ogle farmers in the vicinity of Polo, Mt. Morris and Oregon expected to finish silo filling Saturday. William Klingebiel and Paul W. Charters, Bradford township, in Lee county, have made extensive improvements to buildings on their farm. Roi Degner, just out of Amboy, is providing his Holstein herd with a model dairy barn.

About 25 new memberships were obtained at an Oregon meeting in the campaign to organize a Home Bureau in Ogle county. Membership pledges now total about 100, but additional members will be necessary before an organization can be perfected.

A concerted drive to sell the $15,000 of stock necessary to assure the proposed cold storage locker plant for Dixon will be started in the townships in the vicinity of Dixon as soon as farmers have completed silo-filling. At the Farm Bureau office at Amboy today it was said subscriptions pledged to date approach the $5,000 mark.

Elmer Zundahl, near Forreston, sold nine beef heifers at Chicago at $17 per hundred weight, a new top this year for this type animal. Later Doran Bros., near Ohio, set another new top of $17.75 with a lot of heifers.

A load of 1937 corn, marketed with the Granville co-operative elevator last week, brought 70 cents. The owner, Charles Robinson, said his field yielded 85 bushels to the acre.

Neal Anderson of Walnut, who showed Brown Swiss animals in the junior cattle show at the Bradford fair and horse show, won both the grand and reserve championships in the dairy division. Ribbon winners included Jean Anderson and Oliver Baumgartner of Walnut and Wayne Slutz and Bob Neil of Princeton.

Winners of the 4-H club corn and poultry judging contests held at the fair grounds at Princeton Saturday will go to the state contest at Urbana October 2.

All Bureau county residents interested in music are invited to attend a meeting of the Bureau county chorus at the Farm Bureau auditorium tonight. The chorus plans a concert later this year. Miss Ellen Rackley is the director.

William James of the Whiteside 4-H club and a member of the F. F. A. marketed an Angus calf that took second in the Oregon F. F. A. fair, receiving $17.50 per hundred weight at Chicago.

With the Associated Press reporting yields of 125 bushels to the acre in a hybrid field of Frank Garwood and sons near Taylorville and a 120-bushel yield per acre on the farm of Roy Macklin near Shelbyville, it looks as if Illinois will have a real corn crop this fall.

A birthday and farewell party for Alfred C. Hyer, Princeton, was sponsored by International Harvester Co. dealers of this territory recently at Colonial Inn in Grand Detour. Mr. Hyer will retire on a pension November 1 after twenty-seven years of service with the company. The dealers presented him with a signet ring and Mr. Hyer also was the recipient of many expressions of commendation for his long service in the farm implement field in this territory.

Ward Hartshorn, Nelson; Joe Kuehna, Sublette; James Kirby, Steward; John Hoelzer and C. W. Hoelzer, Paw Paw, and Joy Sandrock and Ed Herwig were among Lee county farmers attending cattle feeders' day at the state college of agriculture.

Advise Caution in Plowing Under of Perennial Legumes

Lee county farmers looking ahead to another successful cropping season in 1938 are well under way with their fall plowing operations. In this connection soil conservation officials point out to the one thousand farmers of this county who are participating in the government's program that caution is advised in plowing under biennial and perennial legumes and grasses. New seedlings of biennial and perennial legumes and grasses must show as of October 31 a stand that normally will survive the winter if the land so seeded is to be classed as new conserving and be eligible for payments. Plowing the land after that date is permissible to earn payments but not advisable.

The contest was directed by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America. The picture was taken when the team

POULTRY SHOW AT CHICAGO TO OPEN OCT. 15

Program Includes Many Features of Interest to Women

The Midwest Poultry Exposition to be held in the International Amphitheater at Chicago October 15 to 19 will be the largest show of the kind ever held in Chicago, the industrial hub of the nation's billion-dollar poultry industry.

An important feature will be an extensive competitive exhibition of the different breeds of poultry, open to both adult and 4-H exhibitors. Entries for these competitions will close October 11. There will also be contests featuring baby chicks and eggs.

Leaders in the retail distribution of poultry products will direct programs designed to educate the consumer on the proper quality of poultry as well as the tasty preparation and economical use of these products. Poultry packers will install exhibits illustrating modern and attractive methods of packaging poultry goods which will be interesting and informing to both retailers and consumers.

The opening day, Friday, October 15, will be free to women visitors and will be designated "Women's day." A series of programs stressing poultry and egg cookery will be given twice daily. A cake baking contest, with divisions for both adults and young people, is planned in this connection.

Other events will include a poultry plucking contest, a poultry calling contest and special entertainment programs scheduled for both afternoons and evenings, while the numerous exhibits, educational features and demonstrations will provide a complete picture of this vast and highly important industry.

Insulation Pays For Itself With Economy in Fuel

Good insulation in a farm or city home will pay for itself in three years in saving fuel, according to W. A. Foster, associate chief in rural architecture of the state college of agriculture. "With winter sure to come, Illinois homemakers will find insulation wisely chosen and intelligently used to be worth while," he said. "It should be placed in every new home and in all old homes as soon as convenient. Insulation is heat saving by the use of a construction which reduces the leakage of air and retards the passage of heat through the walls. Its value as an insulator is measured by the resistance it offers to heat traveling through the material. In addition to high resistance to heat travel, a first class insulating material is one that is fireproof, that contains no food for rodents or insects, that is light in weight and inexpensive and that does not deteriorate with age or moisture."

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, Sept. 28—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes from last week (in bushels): wheat increased 40,000; corn increased 220,000; oats increased 1,339,000; rye increased 803,000; barley increased 515,000.

A regular feature of the life of the old-fashioned early American home was the making of soap. The settlers boiled the grease left from the kitchen and mixed it with lye that was made by pouring water over wood ashes.

SWENSON FARM IS DEVELOPING SOIL PROJECT

Local Farmers Visit This Place for Pointers on Conservation

Several farmers of Lee and Ogle counties have visited the farm of Carl E. Swenson over in Winnebago county to inspect a 520-acre demonstration of conservation farming which will materially increase his legume crop.

On the Swenson farm contour farming, strip cropping, terracing and crop rotations are being employed to keep the soil and water at home. Terraces built last spring are protecting 120 acres of crop land against erosion, and other terraces now under construction will protect 80 more acres when rains come next spring.

Swenson is one of 2,378 Illinois farmers now co-operating with the federal soil conservation service in erosion control work. Hundreds of other farmers throughout the state are now carrying on erosion control and soil improvement practices in co-operation with the extension service of the state college of agriculture. Lee and Ogle county farmers visited some of these farms on the recent soil improvement tour. As a result much interest attaches to the development at the Swenson farm.

Fits Crop to Land
Fitting crops to the lay of the land is an important part of his conservation program, according to Swenson, who is endeavoring to get as much of his steep land under protective cover as possible. "A marked increase in my alfalfa acreage is a result of my erosion control program," Swenson said. "Last year I had only 40 acres of alfalfa on the place, while this year I had 70 acres. We have need for this amount of alfalfa in our farming operations and besides it is one of the best soil-conserving crops that can be grown."

On his steeper land Swenson plans to use a five-year rotation, including three years of alfalfa. On his less steep land he will use a four-year rotation with one year of sweet clover pasture. Legume hay crops increase the absorptive capacity of the soil and protect it against washing, he said. Strip cropping or breaking up the long slopes with alternate strips of clean tilled crops and close-growing cover crops running around the hills on the level is being practiced on 85 acres of the Swenson farm. Contour, or around the hill farming, will be practiced on all crop land when the program is completely established. Swenson is co-operating with the CCC erosion control camp at Du-rand in his erosion control work.

Dixon Man Was Pioneer in Use Of Lime on Land
Use of limestone on the land is a common practice of Illinois farmers today, but veteran farmers say that when Phil Miller of Dixon and D. G. Reder of Mendota, pioneers of this project in northern Illinois, began spreading limestone their farm neighbors thought the two men were a bit "queer." It was contended at the time that limestone would prove of no benefit to the soil. Now nearly every farmer is a limestone enthusiast. The federal department of agriculture is such a strong advocate on the use of lime that it actually is paying farmers to spread the material on their own farms. Lime spreading payments to farmers of Illinois amounted to $805,000 last year, and farmers participating in the soil conservation program this year will receive $125 a ton for spreading limestone. The state college of agriculture and the Dixon and other experiment fields have demonstrated the benefits of liming the land.

Wins Ribbons

Robert Folkers, route No. 1, Dixon, a senior in the vocational agriculture department of the Dixon high school, has had a habit of getting his share of ribbons wherever he has shown his Chester White hogs. An aged sow shown at the recent vocational agriculture fair at Oregon took first in its class and the reserve championship for all classes of hogs shown. Robert also took a third place at Oregon with a Chester White gilt. At the Amboy 4-H club fair this year his animals took several ribbons. For gilts he received first and third prizes, for litters first and second prizes and for boars first and second prizes. These were the only fairs in which Robert exhibited this year.

Lee Co. Animal In Dairy Exhibit At Waterloo Show

Holstein breeders attending the Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa, this week will be especially interested in the Illinois herd of ten animals exhibited under sponsorship of the Illinois Holstein-Friesian association. This herd is made of animals from the Elmswood and Mooseheart herds and one animal from Lee county, owned by Robert Degner of Amboy. Jersey breeders also will have an opportunity to see at Waterloo the famous Jersey herd from the Freedom Farms of Minneapolis. This herd consists of 16 animals which have toured a circuit of five fairs before going to Waterloo. It includes the senior yearling, Florette, which won first place at four fairs this year. Ideal Melody, a stable mate of Florette, won first place at one of the five fairs where the herd was exhibited this year. All of the animals except two were bred by the owner, Fred Atkinson of Minneapolis.

75 PER CENT OF FARMS IN PLAN CHECKED

County Farmers May Get Survey Results at Amboy Office

Dale D. Rosenkrans, president of the Lee County Agricultural Conservation association reports that the work of the field reporters of checking performance in connection with the 1937 conservation program is progressing very rapidly. About seventy-five per cent of the farms for which "request for inspection" cards have been forwarded to the county office have been checked. The maps are now being figured in the office. Any producer who wishes the results of the check of performance may secure same by calling at the office at Amboy or writing.

Producers should remember that where alfalfa and red clover seeding was done that evidence showing such seed was adapted must be filed with the county committee. This can be forwarded to the county office or given to the township committee when they make the second inspection after October 31, 1937. However, producers should arrange to secure this evidence so that it will be available when needed.

If any other seed is used except alfalfa and red clover and there is a good stand of seeding no further evidence is needed. However, if the seeding did not catch and there is not a good stand then evidence must be furnished to show that the seeding was done. This evidence can be in the form of a bill from the firm from whom the seed was purchased, showing the date of purchase and the amount of each variety of seed purchased. If red clover or alfalfa, be sure and have shown the origin of the seed.

President Rosenkrans again calls attention to the fact that only farms for which "request for inspection" cards have been submitted will be checked and will be eligible for payments. If you have not sent in your card and wish your farm or farms checked, send that card in at once. If you have lost your card, you can secure another by calling or writing the county office. If you are not sure if your card has been received a call will give you the information. Call 253 at Amboy or drop a card to the Lee County Agricultural Conservation association at Amboy. Only farms for which cards are received will be inspected.

Improved Practices Expected of Young Folks on Farms

F. W. Niemeyer, general agent of the farm credit administration at St. Louis, well known to Lee county farmers who are stockholders in local farm credit organizations, is optimistic concerning the future of farming in the district embracing Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas. He said he is most impressed by the number of young men going on the farm after graduating from agricultural colleges or learning scientific farming by other means. "With this rising generation of new farmers I think we are going to have some of the finest farming practices in this district we have ever observed," Niemeyer said. He added that more abundant crops have resulted not only in increased interest in farming, but have brought renovation of run-down buildings and equipment.

LEE CO. BUREAU WOMEN STUDY CARE OF FOOD

Preparation Meeting is Held at Amboy and Leaders Named

In line with various studies on food which Lee County Home Bureau women have been making during the past year the subject for October is "Care of Food in the Home." Home Adviser Elizabeth Coleman announces that other food and nutrition topics over the coming year are "Yeast Bread Variations" and "Meat Cookery."

The study will present suggestions for keeping the food clean, covered and cool. Types of organisms which cause spoilage will be studied. Various types of storage equipment will be compared.

Preparations for the study was made at Amboy Thursday when Miss Grace Armstrong, extension specialist in foods, college of agriculture, University of Illinois, met with local leaders. Miss Armstrong suggested that milk may reflect the action of bacteria quicker than some other foods but unless all fresh vegetables and fruits are kept crisp and cool they quickly deteriorate and become unappetizing.

The care of milk, eggs, meat and fats will be particularly stressed in the unit meetings. Leaders for the lesson are: Mrs. Robert Bollman, Mrs. Florence Bollman, Mrs. Volney Storey, Mrs. F. J. Gates, Mrs. Fred Yeager, Mrs. A. C. Dollmeyer and Mrs. A. D. Dodd of Dixon; Mrs. Nellie Keay, Mrs. Charles Rose and Doris Boehle of Amboy; Mrs. Richard Phalen and Mrs. Esther Conibear of Lee Center; Miss Line Clarke of Sublette; Mrs. Ellis Kugler of Harmon, and Mrs. Edward Shippert of Franklin Grove.

FARMERS PLAN COLD STORAGE PLANT AT POLO

Committee is Named to Make Survey in Community

Plans for the organization of a locker refrigerator plant to be located at Polo serving the entire southwest portion of Ogle county, have been initiated by the Buffalo unit of the Ogle County Farm Bureau. A committee consisting of C. C. Davis, township director, Arthur Stoner, and Harry Wolf, have been named to investigate possible sites, methods of construction, and costs, and to make a survey of the community to determine the extent of patronage which may be expected for such a project. Many people in this community have been enthused over the reports of successful operation of locker refrigerator plants in nearby territory and have requested such a service in Ogle county.

The project, sponsored by the Ogle County Farm Bureau, will be cooperative in its operation. It will require the investment of individuals in the community in the capital stock which will pay a reasonable rate of interest and will necessitate the leasing of approximately 300 lockers to assure its success.

Letters have been sent to residents of the community asking them to state their desire to cooperate in this project. Information will be given by members of the committee or can be secured at the Farm Bureau office at Oregon.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. All women but only some men want to be well dressed. Vast numbers of men care little about their clothes—entirely too little, perhaps. However, since the "good old depression" is now a thing of yesteryear, men are going in for colors and more men are evidently becoming ambitious to be the best dressed man on the board walk. If all this spreads, we men may all be "dressing against each other" as Ring Lardner used to say of two women who were living only to be the best dressed woman in town.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. When people, especially young people, from different countries, gather for a common purpose and with common enthusiasms it is bound to work for better understanding and when these gather for the purpose of uniting their thoughts, energies and enthus-many, Italy and Russia, who are always on the verge of war.

Answer to Question 3

3. No more than we blame any one else. All men and women are human, no matter how great their genius. Famous men and women are usually subjected to more temptations than are obscure people and also live at a higher tension. Certainly we should deplore their departures from the best ideals of conduct, but this should not prevent our admiring their creations. Just like many other people they have evaded the fight for character, and in the past, like all men and women, lacked the helps of modern psychology which now offer very practical helps in the building of character.

Bigamy Is Charged
Against Chicagoan
Chicago, Sept. 28—(AP)—Judge
Harold P. O'Connell of the felony court continued until November 22 a hearing on charges of bigamy against Wallace A. Gill, 40, a structigating the embezzlement charge

he found that Gill had not divorced

"I understood she divorced me,"
Gill said.

OUT OF THE NIGHT

BY MARION WHITE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PRISCILLA PIERCE—heroine, young woman attorney.
AMY KERR—Cilly's roommate and murderer's victim.
JIM HUTCHINS—Cilly's fiance.
HARRY HUTCHINS—Amy's
strange visitor.
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday, Harvey Ames, Amy's employer, is shockingly distressed at the news of Amy's death. His actions arouse Cilly's suspicions.

CHAPTER XI
MR. CROWELL was unusually solicitous when Cilly explained the tragic affair to him.

"Don't worry about the office,
Miss Pierce," he ordered, gently.
"I'm sorry about the Harvey case, because I particularly wanted you to handle it. But this is a terrible situation. Don't try to come in for the balance of the week. And if you feel in need of any legal backing, remember that we'll stand behind you. Don't let the police frighten you."

Leaving his office, Cilly felt stronger than she had in the past 12 hours. With the backing of a law firm as capable and as respected as Crowell and Burns, she lost some of that first dread she had of the circumstantial evidence which was closing in around Jim.

"Telephone, Miss Pierce," the operator called, as Cilly passed the switchboard.

"Who is it, Betty?"
"Mr. Hutchins."

"All right. Put him on."
In her own office, she took up the phone. Harvey's voice, loud and strident, came over the wire.

"I've been trying to get you at home, Priscilla," he said. "I'm just about broken up by the news.
Can I help in any way—with the funeral, perhaps?"

"Thank you, Harvey," Cilly replied quietly. "There's really nothing more to be done. Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2
... at the Greenwood Funeral Home in Flatbush."

"I'll be there, of course. In the meantime, there are some things
I'd like to talk over with you.
Will you have dinner with me tonight?"

Cilly didn't feel equal to dining with Harry Hutchins.
"I'd rather not go out to dinner tonight," she told him. "But I'll be home about 5, if you care to drop in for a few minutes."

"Fine. I'll be out shortly after 5."

Cilly was home only a few minutes when Harry Hutchins arrived. He had obviously stopped at the florist's, for he carried an enormous bouquet—a gay colorful array of flowers.

"I just stopped to see about a wreath," he said by way of explanation. "and I thought I might just as well bring these along to you. They'll cheer the place up a bit."

Cilly thanked him. She appreciated his thoughtfulness, nevertheless she resented his flowers. No matter how fine Harry Hutchins tried to be, she thought, she would not like him.

FDR FINDS WISDOM IN PROJECTS

President Views Bonneville Dam

Bonneville Dam, Ore., Sept. 28. — (AP) — President Roosevelt stood on this great federal power-plant project today and asserted its cost would be returned many times over in improved navigation, cheaper electricity, and distribution of power to "hundreds of small communities within a great radius."

In the first formal address of his west coast trip, he tied in this $51,000,000 Columbia Basin undertaking with his program for regional and national planning. He declared, too, that instead of spending half its income on armaments as some nations do, America was wiser in building such projects to give "more wealth, better living and greater happiness for our children."

The president also predicted through broad use of electric power a "wider geographical distribution of population" through the building up of smaller communities.

"Definitely Balanced" Budget Promised a "definitely balanced" budget by the next fiscal year—July 1, 1938.

Forecast "ultimate development" of the St. Lawrence Waterway for power and navigation improvement. A treaty with Canada on this project was rejected by the Senate several years ago.

Favored a policy of the "widest use" of power at Bonneville, Grand Coulee and other federal dams.

Re-advocated better land use and conservation of water resources.

Denied his proposal would "set up all powerful authorities which would destroy state lines, take away local government and make what people call a totalitarian or authoritarian or some other kind of a dangerous national centralized control."

"Most people realize," he said on the latter point, "that the exact opposite is the truth—that regional commissions will be far more closely in touch with the needs of all the localities and all the people in their respective regions than a system of plans which originate in the capital of the nation."

Redistribution of Population

The president led up to his prediction of a redistribution of populations by relating how New York state, when he was governor, discouraged the idea of planning another great manufacturing city like Pittsburgh near the proposed St. Lawrence dam site and adopted a policy of distribution of the power to benefit hundreds of smaller towns.

After predicting every community in the Columbia Basin would be wholly electrified in the not far distant future, he added:

"It is because I am thinking of the nation and the region 250 years from now that I venture the further prophecy that as time passes we will do everything in our power to encourage the building up of the smaller communities of the United States."

"Today many people are beginning to realize that there is inherent weakness in cities which become too large and inherent strength in a wider geographical distribution of population."

"An over-large city inevitably meets problems caused by over-size Real estate values and rents become too high; the time consumed in going from one's home to one's work and back again becomes excessive; congestion of streets and other transportation problems arise; truck gardens disappear because the backyard is too small; the cost of living of the average family rises far too high."

The president said there was "doubtless a reasonable balance in all of this and it is a balance which ought to be given more and more study."

Matters of National Concern

No one would suggest, he said, that Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, and Spokane should stop their growth, but he added their healthiest growth depends on a simultaneous healthy growth of every smaller community within a radius of hundreds of miles.

Declaring better land use and water conservation were matters of "national concern," he said if the government had the knowledge many years ago it has now and the willingness to act, it would have saved the taxpayers in the last few years "at least two billion dollars."

He said this would have been done by avoiding planting vast areas that should have been kept in grazing, preventing overgrowing, checking soil erosion, and denuding of forests and controlling disastrous fires.

The president said the $51,000,000 Bonneville dam complete except for installation of initial power machinery, would enable shipping to use the Columbia river "much further inland than at present, and give an outlet to the enormously valuable agricultural and mineral products of Oregon and Washington and Idaho."

Its generators will be turned on in a few months.

Ships Racing To Meet Endeavour I Off Irish Coast

London, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A wild race to be first to greet the returning Endeavour I started from English and Irish ports today.

The destroyer Wolverine and the powerful German tug, Seefalke, sailed from Cohn during the night. Craft at Gosport and other ports prepared also for a dash down the channel to meet the yacht—challenger in 1934 for the America's Cup and missing since September 13 when she broke away from her tow while returning from the United States.

The Endeavour I was located yesterday 260 miles off the Irish coast.

Peter Durand, an Englishman, obtained the first patents for the making of ten cans in 1810. He also obtained patent for the preservation of food in metal, glass and pottery containers at that time.

Memorial

Mt. Rushmore to Bear Faces of Four American Builders

Three gigantic stone faces now look out from a peak in the Black Hills. On September 17 the head of Abraham Lincoln was unveiled, and dedicated. His rugged features thus were added to those of Washington and Jefferson as a part of the Mt. Rushmore memorial to four great builders of the American nation. The sculptor of the heroic figures, Gutzon Borglum, has not yet started the carving of the fourth bust—that of Theodore Roosevelt.

"The Mt. Rushmore tribute to rock-ribbed democracy is but one of the many unusual attractions of the Black Hills region of South Dakota," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Once Happy Hunting Ground

"Although the mountains lie somewhat off the main rail, air, and highway routes between the east and the west, this highland region in the Great Plains has played a distinctive role in American life ever since it was a happy hunting ground of the Indians."

"The first written history of the country is a pictorial chronicle of the Sioux on prepared skins. Lewis and Clark, the explorers, passed north of the hills in 1804, and it was not until the period between 1856 and 1859 that officers of the U. S. army, who made the first real surveys of the section, came into the region."

"But the Black Hills—really misnamed because they are the highest mountains between the Rockies and the Atlantic—remained an Indian reservation until gold was discovered in their gulches and canyons in 1874."

"When Congress in 1877 opened this area to white settlement, it started one of the wildest gold rushes in American history. Turbulent frontier life developed in such mining camps as Deadwood and Lead. The exploits of Calamity Jane and Wild Bill Hickok became the inspiration of the American dime novel which came into being about that time."

Ghost Towns, Modern Cities

"All is changed now. Much gold is still mined in the hills, but on a corporation and machine basis. Once hectic mining camps have become modern cities with paved streets, garages, brick buildings, neon signs and beauty shops. Their rough and ready past is depicted chiefly in modern movies. Other rip-roaring gold rush settlements of the 70's are but ghost towns today, with only a few shacks and mine tailings recalling one of the most glamorous periods in the history of the West."

"The huge Homestake Mine, at Lead, is still one of the largest gold diggings in the world, and has yielded more than two hundred million dollars of the precious yellow metal."

"The Black Hills was a new center of national importance when the late President Coolidge spent his vacation in 1927 at the Game Lodge, a state-owned hotel in the Black Hills. At the Rapid City high school, where he maintained the summer White House, he made his famous 'I do not choose to run' declaration."

Stratosphere Take-Offs

"The region was again the focus of national and international attention in 1934 and 1935, when the National Geographic society-U. S.

army air corps stratosphere flights took off from the Stratosphere, near Rapid City. This admirable sheltered basin in the Black Hills was chosen, after a careful search, as the best place to inflate the giant balloon which, on November 11, 1935, attained a world's record altitude of 72,995 feet.

"For tourists and posterity Rapid City recently established a synthetic dinosaur park. On a hilltop overlooking this mining-farming-resort, several of the gigantic reptiles have been fashioned of concrete to give an idea of the type of prehistoric creatures which once roamed the region."

"To the outsider the chief source of the Black Hills charm is the natural attractiveness of their heavily wooded peaks and ridges. Motor roads have been cut through well-watered canyons, where speckled trout play in clear pools shaded by aspens, and an occasional beaver dam may be seen. The region still abounds in game. Elk and buffalo steaks are regular fare in the town restaurants. C. C. C. boys have cleared camping and picnic spots throughout the Harney and Black Hills national forests and in Custer State park."

"For contrast there are the Big Badlands, southeast of the Black Hills, where through thousands of years rains have carved the light clays, gravels, and sands into fluted columns and cones, jagged buttresses and a thousand other fantastic forms. Here fossil hunters find many days of good sport and amateur photographers can test their skill with natural color film."

pensive, but built a modified arrangement based on both the Oregon Commission and the Bureau of Fisheries plans.

Therefore when the salmon swarm up the Columbia next April, waiting for them at the bottom of the Bonneville Dam they will find a long trap which leads them either to a series of gravity ladders or to elevators. If they feel tired they can take the elevator. If they feel spry they can climb the ladder.

But either way, U. S. fisheries experts are betting that this will be the last great salmon trek up the Columbia River.

Note—Channels also have been devised for the fingerlings, or newborn fish, to avoid the dam on their way back to the sea. Experts claim, however, that the fingerlings are so small that they can pass through Merry-Go-Round.

Mount Hood Lodge is the second Government-owned tourist hotel to be visited by Roosevelt. The first was Bluebird Castle Hotel, in Charlotte Amalia, Virgin Islands. Both hotels were built with PWA funds. . . . Mount Hood Lodge is the first hotel to be built with government funds in a National Forest. It will be leased to a concessionaire, but control will remain in the hands of Uncle Sam. . . . On the mountain slopes above the Lodge, snow lingers through the summer, and ski trails are open the year around. . . . Forest Service hopes to open the Lodge January 1. Officials expect a full house, in season recalling that in a single day last winter 25,000 people came to Mount Hood for winter sports. . . . LEE GIVEN NO STATE RELIEF FUNDS IN SEPT

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission reported today that although the number of units receiving state funds has been cut almost in half since July 1, the case load has increased 8 per cent in Cook county and 2.3 per cent down-state.

Relief allocations were made to 827 governmental units in June, before enactment of the law requiring the expenditure of available local resources as a prerequisite to state aid, compared with 496 units in September.

Previously the law simply required that relief units, most of which are townships, levy a 3 mill pauper tax without consideration of local funds.

Ten counties received no state funds in September, either because they failed to qualify, or because sufficient funds were on hand to meet local needs. They were Menard, Monroe, Richland, Union, Wabash, Ford, Edward, Jasper, Johnson and Lee.

Chicago received 74.65 per cent of the $2,900,000 the state spent for relief in September.
